Cushman's Brigade lost its identity as an organization after we left Ottawa February 27, 1862—Cogswell's Battery being detached at Chicago—and Fords Cavalry at St. Louis. The Infantry, 53rd Ill. Volunteers, remaining as the larger body.

But throughout the Civil War each of the original organizations took an intense interest in what the others did and in all the years since coming home we have held our annual reunions together as Cushman's Brigade.

It would be interesting to have a full history of all the commands composing the original Cushman's Brigade, but it is too large a task for the present. Suffice it to say that as true soldiers each arm of the organization did its duty wherever it was placed by those in authority—and won for themselves honors of which every man may be proud. The 53rd is enrolled as one of the fighting 300 Regiments of the Civil War. Fords Cavalry was chosen as bodyguard to Gen. H. W. Halleck. Afterwards transferred to the 15th Ill. Cavalry, where it did splendid service. Cogswell's Battery answered all calls and never knew defeat.

Col. John W. McClanahan
Fourth Commander. Resigned June 21,
1865. Died May 21, 1901.

JUST A FOREWORD. Twelve years ago our Reunion was held at Kankakee, Ill., with but six Comrades present—our secretary, Comrade Chas. Yockey, had passed away since the last meeting. Comrade Brucks moved the election of J. T. Moss to the vacant Secretaryship. Although we had less than one hundred names of our Comrades on our list, we determined to find as many more of them as we could, and by earnest, persistent work we got more than five hundred on our roll, as handed you herewith. We believe that there is at least fifty living yet whose names we do not have. Read the names, and if you know a single Comrade who is not recorded, please report it to the Secretary at once.

You will find quite a number with a star (*) after the name. These Comrades have not responded to any communications in the last four years or more.

All who have died since 1903 have been recorded—and when the word widow, son or daughter follows the name, you can write them at the same old address.

Beside the roll of survivors we have on our list the names of Mrs. Rector C. Hitt, daughter of Col. Cushman.

Miss Ella Hitt, daughter of Col. Hitt.

Miss Fanny M. Earl, daughter of Col. Earl.

Mrs. Philo Hard, daughter of Col. Earl. Died Feb. 17, 1915.

Known as daughters of the Brigade.

We have a Ladies 'Auxiliary composed of the wives of Comrades and the women of their families. All connected with your family are eligible to membership.

It has been the aim and the desire of your officers to keep in touch with every Comrade of Cushman's Brigade, to keep alive the comradeship and to make stronger, if possible, the ties formed in the furnace of war Fifty years ago, and to have as many of you as possible come together each year to clasp hands, look into each other's eyes and to thank God for his goodness to us, the greatest of all Nations, the home of Freemen, we hope you have enjoyed as we have the love feasts year by year, and that you will come as long as you can get to them.

Narrative

Narrative—More than Fifty-four Years ago, some good Americans of the South, who thought that their rights were imperiled, made the great mistake of taking up arms and plunging our land into the Horrors of Civil War. Patriots everywhere sprang to the defense of our Flag, and for four terrible years, from the Ocean to the Father of Waters and beyond, through all the Southland and even into the Northland, fierce battle was waged, by day and by night the rich, red blood of our young men—even of our boys—moistened the hilltops, the mountain heights and the green valleys, while the damps and the dews of the swamps and the wildwood caught away their thousands as the slow years passed. Mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts toiled, suffered, and prayed at home while their loved ones marched and fought and died, until Peace came. Then forgetting our differences, foe clasped hands with foe, enemies no longer, but AMERICANS all—we went back to civil life—one people, one land, one Flag—"THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER"—Emblem of Freedom the world over.

You of Cushman's Brigade were a part of that Grand Army. Where the fighting was fiercest, where the marches were longest, where the privations were severest, over the hills and down into the lowlands of the sunny, beautiful South, you were in the forefront, for thousands of weary miles you followed the banner of liberty until the day when Gen. Grant said: "Let us have Peace."

Today we meet to celebrate, THAT PEACE which for FIFTY YEARS has spread its wings above us and blessed us as no other nation has been blessed.

We may justly and modestly take pride in the fact that we in our young manhood had a part in making this the greatest, the freest, the best Nation this world has ever known.

The Fifty-third Regiment of Illinois volunteers was organized by Col. Cushman at Ottawa, Ill., in the winter of '61 and '62, and was mustered out at Louisville, Ky., July 22, 1865. From first to last it had five commanders, four of whose portraits we give you; unable to get a picture of the fifth Commander. We can only record that he, Col. Robt. H. McFadden, came to us with the consolidation of the gallant 41st Regt. Ill. Vol. He was mustered out July 22, 1865. Died Jan. 31, 1914.

Fords Cavalry was organized with the 53rd Regt., became escort to Maj.-Gen. Halleck—was transferred to 15th Ill. Cavalry, Co. L., later consolidated with the 10th Ill. Cavalry, and some of its members were not freed from service until Jan. 6, 1866, having seen almost five years of service. Capt. Ford was killed by his runaway team at Los Angeles, Calif., in 1887.

Cogwell's Battery, also organized with the 53rd Regt., and served throughout the war; its final discharge was at Springfield, Ill., August 14, 1865. Capt. Cogwell died at Ottawa Nov. 27, 1893.

We rejoice that our lives have been spared so long to enjoy the blessings

J. L. Barber, President.

Geo. C. Nettleton, Chaplain.

E. H. Stumph, First Vice-President.

J. T. Moss, Secretary.

Ottawa, Ill., July 22, 1915.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Comrades, Comrades, fifty years ago,
Standing strong and steady to meet their country's foe,
Shoulders firm and heads held high and eyes with love aglow;
Love for Flag and Country inspiring them to go.

Comrades, Comrades marching side by side
Where the din of battle reached its highest tide.
Elbow touching elbow they close the gaps to hide,
When Comrades fall between them to march no more beside.

Comrades, Comrades ever, whether on the field,
Or in camp or prison, forced their lives to yield.
Or with you returning; bringing home the Flag
That led them on to vict'ry, now a tattered rag.

Comrades, Comrades, with faltering steps and slow;
Eyes grown dim and gray heads that years are bending low,
At this jubilee meeting, feeling still the glow,
Of love for Flag and Country, strong as fifty years ago.

Dedicated to survivors of Cushman's Brigade, by Mrs. Annie E. Bassett, widow of Capt. Mark M. Bassett of Co. E., 53rd.
Ottawa, October, 1911.
